Living a Sustainable Lifestyle

During the building and development process of Maxwell's Green, careful attention was paid to creating a truly green complex, including utilizing sustainable materials and adding environmentally-friendly features.

Centered on eco-friendly living, Maxwell's Green is a high-end apartment complex in Somerville, Massachusetts, opened to residents in the fall of 2012.

Maxwell's Green is touted as one of the first "Green" living residences in the Boston area. Combining an urban feel with sustainable living, the complex draws city dwellers, green movement proponents and families alike. The environment is smoke-free and offers a dog park, bike storage, electric recharging station, yoga studio and much more.

The Community Center

Maxwell's Green's mission is to create a sustainable neighborhood, with fellowship being of major significance. At the heart of the complex, a large community activities center was built which includes an internet café, fitness center, movie theater, management offices, billiards room, gourmet chef's kitchen, roof deck and so much more.

Lobby and Corridors

The luxurious lobby highlights the building's contemporary design with modern yet conservative décor and the natural beauty of Floorazzo™ Birch Tree. A homogeneous resilient terrazzo floor covering, Floorazzo™ tiles provide incredible durability and an easy-to-maintain surface in highly trafficked areas including the lobby, stair landings and corridors.

Since its opening, the activities center continues to grow as the hub of community activity hosting social club meetings, movie night parties, meet your neighbor events and more.
